Some staff members have estimated the cost of the study at $325,000, Knowles said.

Collinsville developer Gary Fears, who asked the convention authority to request the grant, said the study is expected to cost $600,000.

Knowles said Gov. James Thompson has indicated he may cut some or all budgets, so funding for all projects is uncertain.

The new study would determine a site for the proposed Aquacenter.

Some landowners in Pontoon Beach have offered free sites for the center, but Fears and Mayor Gene Brombolich said they think the Aquacenter should be in or near Collinsville.

Judge halts police firings

BELLEVILLE — Brooklyn's Mayor James C. Davis was granted a restraining order Friday against the village board that stops its controversial firing last week of Police Chief William Powell

The order, signed by St. Clair County Associate Judge Jan Fiss, says the board overstepped its legal grounds and stops anyone from serving as police chief, village treasurer or any newly hired police officers from starting work.

A hearing on the order is scheduled for July 9 before Fiss.

Detore Fiss.

Davis filed the complaint after the village board fired Powell and a detective during a board meeting June 20 for allegedly taking money from suspected drug dealers.

The board also fired Powell's father, Treasurer incent Powell Sr., for allegedly making purhases without the board's approval and for keeping inaccurate receipts and records.

During that meeting, Davis board was out of order order to be a support of the power of t board room claiming the board was out of order by its action.

According to the complaint, the police chief, reasurer and police officers must be named by the mayor with the board's approval.

Named in the suit are village bond members Juanita Clemens, Nathamal and the policy of the policy board member to vote against removing the Powells from office.

The board also rehired officer Charles Brooks, one of two police officers fired earlier this month. The other officer, whose name was not available, also was rehired over Davis' objections.

to make more of an impact.
"I think the nucleus of this year's team will stay together," said Trittschuh. "But it will be good for most of us to go over and play in Europe. There is no substitute for playing day in and day out with a high level of com-petition."

"I could end up playing in England, Holland or Germany," Trittschuh said. "It doesn't really matter, just getting to play at that level can only help. I'm inder contract to the National Team through December and then we'll see what happens."

Trittschul said the National Team does have one game definitely scheduled in Milwaukec on the National Special Control of the National Special Control of the National Control o Rowdies.

"They love the Rowdies down here," he said from Tampa. "And I've gotten my share of attention from the World Cup. I've been on the World Cup. I've been on the world cup. Stations and the radio stations have been calling It's a pretty good soccer community."

Widow's monthly benefit might increase with SSI

By Bill Hunot Social Security Administration

Q. My mother, 70, gets a small widow's benefit from Social Security but is having a hard time financially since my father's death six months ago. I have heard she may be able to get SSI, too. How can she find set SSI, too. How can she find out?

A. Your mother may be able to get an SSI payment if her only income is a Social Security check that is less than $400 per There also is a limit of $2,000 on her assets. However, many of the things she owns won't count against that limit. For example, if she owns her home its value down the second own insurance policies and burial plans and still get SSI.

Q. My husband and I are elderly and we recently sunder also were told that we can apply for food stamps. How does Social Security determine the distribution of food stamps?

A. Food stamps rigibility is Security determine the distribu-tion of food stamps?

A. Food stamps eligibility is determined by the public Aid in Illinois, not by Social Security. However, if you and your hus-band live alone and both are applying for SSI, Social Security can take your food stamp appli-cation at the same time that you apply for SSI. Q. If J get SSI and later move to another state, do I have to file a new application in my new state to continue receiving my SSI payments?

A. A person receiving SSI who moves must report the change of residence to Social to the cond of the month that they move. You will not have to file a new application but Social Security will ask about your new living arrangements because they might affect your SSI payment.

You also must notify Social Security if there is a change my own income or in the things you own.

they determine the premium

A. The medical insurance pre-mium usually increases each January. But this past January the premium actually decreased from $31.90 to $28.60 per month. Changes in the premium are based on changes: in program costs. In recent years that will also be proposed to the program. The rest of the costs are paid out of general revenues of the federal treasury.

Q. I just enrolled in Medicare. Will Medicare pay for all my health-care needs?

A. Medicare, does not pay all of your health-care expenses. There are deductibles and copayments that beneficiaries must pay. And there are some services that are not covered by Medicare—such as prescription drugs and stays at nursing homes.

In 1990 the Hospital Insurance Part A) deductible is $592—the amount you have to pay when you are admitted to the hospital.
Part B of Medicare or Medical Insurance will pay 80 percent of the Medicare-approved charge after the first $75 per year. The $75 is a deductible and the 2g part of the Medicare will not pay is a co-payment.
